<sup>2</sup> Pitch or Dimensions refers to the amount of space between each coil of a helix. For example, in a single position, a 24-pitch helix will allow a maximum quantity to be stocked of twenty-four for a given part number.

<sup>3</sup> A Dual Helix has two coils attached to a special dual motor.

<sup>4</sup> A Split Helix is a standard helix attached to a special motor designed to turn 180° per transaction, thus doubling the capacity for that storage location.
